Qualitative Research Interviews and Focus Groups

French / English

English / French

Canadian qualitative research data is collected in both English and French languages. To accurately analyze the content, researchers must have a clear understanding of the participants' speech. In addition to the accuracy of her work, Monique Provost offers speech to text translation services that are budget customized for research chairs, laboratories and research centres. A quotation according to ethics committee's requirements for funding process can be provided.

Monique Provost

Ethnologist graduate of Laval University, she also studied translation at UQTR. For the last 7 years, she has been collaborating with many Canadian University Chairs of research, Research Centres and Public Institutions. See the list below.
